FALL PREVIEW

WELCOME TO THE 2018 FALL SEASON

Get ready to laugh, as this year sees a lot of networks turning to comedies to fill open time slots — and there are some good shows in this mix! If you grew up in the '60s and '70s, you will enjoy some belly laughs watching ABC's The Kids Are Alright. You know those times when kids didn't wear bike helmets, seat belts were unheard of and adult supervision was pretty much Mom having a cigarette and cocktail while the kids ran amok through the neighborhood. If you were Catholic, it was also a time when families were massive — having six kids or more was pretty common — and the eldest son, well, he almost always was steered toward the seminary. I watched this and laughed hard thinking of my own father's family dynamics and how similar the show and his life were. Hopefully, you too will connect with some of the new offerings this season. Inside we break down the season into Comedy, Drama, Talk, Reality, Documentary, Movies and Streaming. You'll see all the new shows detailed, as well as information on some of your returning favorites. Happy Fall TV!

Barb Oates, Editor in Chief

Staff TOP PICKS for Fall

BARB

I loved it: Mr Inbetween (FX), Magnum P.I. (CBS)

It's got potential: New Amsterdam (NBC)

I didn't initially dig, but now I have to find out:

A Million Little Things (ABC)

I laughed out loud watching: The Kids Are Alright (ABC)

Cancel it now: I Feel Bad (NBC)

JEFF

I loved it: Magnum P.I. (CBS)

It's got potential: God Friended Me (CBS)

I laughed out loud watching: The Kominsky Method (Netflix)

I can't wait for: Into the Dark (Hulu), Titans (DC Universe)

I'll give it another chance: Marvel's Iron Fist (Netflix)

Cancel it now: The Neighborhood (CBS)

RYAN

I loved it: The Kids Are Alright (ABC)

It's got potential: Single Parents (ABC)

I didn't dig, but you will: The Rookie (ABC)

I laughed out loud watching: The Cool Kids (FOX)

Cancel it now: Happy Together (CBS)

KELLIE

I loved it: The Miniaturist (PBS)

It's got potential: Manifest (NBC)

I didn't dig, but you will: FBI (CBS)

I laughed out loud watching: The Cool Kids (FOX)

I'm glad they're remaking: Murphy Brown (CBS)

Cancel it now: I Feel Bad (NBC)

MAYANS M.C. (FX)

Sons of Anarchy creator Kurt Sutter takes a familiar road with Mayans, which follows a Latino motorcycle club and their new prospect. It's a Godfather-esque story in the making.

THE
HOT LIST

Here's our list of personal favorites – the shows we share all over social media with our friends and family. The shows we think are standouts for the new season. Let us know if you agree at letters@ntvbmedia.com.

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT (ABC)

From dad Mike's (Michael Cudlitz) take on then-current events ("You know what I call Watergate? That's phony news!") to mom Peggy's (Mary McCormack) honest parenting ("We do not have the wherewithal in this family for any of you kids to be special!"), there's lots to love about this family comedy set in 1970s suburban L.A.

NEW AMSTERDAM (NBC)

NBC loves its former The Blacklist star (Ryan Eggold), and so do we in this emotional medical drama that touches on everything we want in a healthcare system that's determined to let doctors be doctors again.

YOU (Lifetime)

Penn Badgley (Gossip Girl's most hated character) is amazingly twisted yet eerily charming in this dark tale of courtship.

MAGNUM P.I. (CBS)

Once you accept that Tom Selleck is sticking with Blue Bloods, you'll enjoy the sassy banter, cool cars and sundrenched adventures with this new crew.

MR INBETWEEN (FX)

This half-hour Australian dramedy couldn't be more surprisingly entertaining. The series follows the laconic Ray Shoemith (Scott Ryan) as a criminal-for-hire (he's ruthless, but he's got a heart), a father (endearing, but loses a dollar every time he swears), an ex-husband (something got screwed up somewhere) and a best friend (you don't want to ever cross any one of his friends).

KIDDING (Showtime)

It must have taken a special project to get Jim Carrey into his first regular TV series role in over 20 years, and this unique half-hour comedy certainly is special. It's not just laugh-out-loud funny, but also has a more somber and emotional undercurrent, and much to say about a nice person trying to maintain sanity in an often not-so-nice world.

6 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

1 RICK GRIMES SAYS GOODBYE TO "THE WALKING DEAD"

"He's been sweating in Georgia for so long," says executive producer Robert Kirkman, of Andrew Lincoln, who plays the series' founding character Rick Grimes. "He cares about the fans. He cares about the show deeply. He wants to do something on the way out, and we have something amazing planned. Anybody who has been a fan of his journey, who loves Rick Grimes, who loves the world of The Walking Dead, you're going to want to see what we do." Lincoln is rumored to only appear in about six episodes of the upcoming ninth season.

3 A STREAM OF BIG-NAME STARS

Streaming services like Netflix and Amazon are increasingly attracting high-profile names to be involved both behind and in front of the camera for original series and movies. This fall, you'll be able to see the likes of Julia Roberts, Sean Penn, Michael Douglas and Alan Arkin in various new streaming projects. For Roberts and Penn, these projects mark their first major, regularly starring TV roles.

4 A LEBRON JAMES PRODUCTION

NBA star – and newest member of the Los Angeles Lakers as of the 2018-19 season – LeBron James hasn't waited to get to La-La Land before running down the court with his other, creative interests. King James is one of the producers behind three new sports documentaries this fall – HBO's Student Athlete, Starz's Warriors of Liberty City and Showtime's Shut Up and Dribble.

5 "GAME OF THRONES" TO GET A SPINOFF?

HBO's programming president Casey Bloys confirmed that Game of Thrones' six-episode bittersweet final season will begin in the first half of 2019. There is, however, a succession plan to HBO's behemoth: a prequel that takes place thousands of years before Westeros as we know it. "We are doing a pilot that Jane Goldman wrote," says Bloys. "We hope to be shooting sometime in the new year. But beyond that, there are no plans to make any other [spinoffs] at this time."

6 DISCOVERY MEETS FOOD NETWORK

Earlier this summer Discovery Communications (Discovery, TLC, Science, Animal Planet, OWN, etc.) merged with Scripps Networks (Food Network, HGTV, Cooking, DIY, Travel), so collectively they now have 19 channels and as of presstime are the second largest TV company in the U.S. in terms of reach. NBC Universal is currently first.

2 AND THE EMMY WINNER IS NETFLIX

For the first time ever, a streaming service garnered the most Emmy nominations. Netflix received 112 total nominations, edging out HBO, which had 108; however, the premium cable network has maintained consistency over quantity for the past two decades. The Emmys air on NBC Sept. 17.

LAST MAN STANDING

FOX

Premieres: Sept. 28

Airs: Fridays at 8pm

Who's In It? Tim Allen, Nancy Travis, Jonathan Adams, Amanda Fuller, Christoph Sanders, Hector Elizondo

What's It All About? The sitcom that ran on ABC for six seasons and was unceremoniously canceled in 2017 gets revived on FOX. ABC ended the series despite decent ratings, which prompted many to speculate that the network was motivated by politics. "It just came by kind of a surprise," Allen says, noting that he has worked most of his life at Disney/ABC. "If it was a political decision — which I don't think it was a political decision — they certainly wouldn't be dim enough to admit that."

Still, Allen felt the show was in a "sweet spot" and had stories left to tell. "In my gut, I didn't think it was done," Allen says. "I felt like I was the last guy in the hospital room looking at this guy in a coma going, 'I don't know. I think he's coming out of his coma.' That's what it felt like. Everybody else had moved on."

Allen had a phone call with FOX executives to discuss the possibilities of rebooting the show. Eventually, most of the core cast, writers, producers and crew were onboard, and Last Man Standing was standing again.

As far as the transition from Season 6 on ABC to Season 7, Allen provides the perfect analogy: "I think we got a software update. We thought the computer was dead, and we've got all this data in it. And someone says, 'Wait a minute, I think I can reboot from another drive,' and boom, we rebooted it and the computer's fine and they put it into a shell that's got even more RAM in it and everything is fine. It went to a deep sleep, and it looked like it was dead. Somebody said, 'Wait a minute, if I reboot this from an SSD drive, I think I can get this thing to come back.' 'Yeah, but it won't be the same.' 'No, we've lost a little bit of data, but it's all manageable. And not only that, now I think it's faster, and we will protect it this time.'" — Ryan A. Berenz

MURPHY BROWN

Premieres: Sept. 27

Airs: Thursdays at 9:30pm

Who's In It? Candice Bergen, Faith Ford, Joe Regalbuto, Grant Shaud, Jake McDorman

What's It All About? TV's favorite sharp-tongued newswoman, Murphy Brown (Bergen), returns a full 20 years after she went off the air. Heartened, perhaps, by the successful reboots of NBC's Will & Grace and ABC's Roseanne (well, before that happened), CBS resurrects the beloved sitcom that ran from 1988-98. In the new incarnation, veteran journalist Brown returns to the airwaves in response to "a divided nation, chaotic national discourse and rampant attacks on the press." And she's not coming alone.

Murphy convinces her old FYI team – lifestyle reporter Corky Sherwood (Ford), investigative reporter Frank Fontana (Regalbuto) and frequently exasperated producer Miles Silverberg (Shaud) – to sign on for a new daytime talk show. Robert Pastorelli, who played Eldin, Murph's right-hand man on the home front, died in 2004, and Charles Kimbrough, who played deadpan anchorman Jim Dial, may return in a guest spot or two.

But another character familiar to Murphy Brown fans is also back and then some. Murphy's biggest on-air competitor in her new time slot is none other than Avery Brown (McDorman), now all grown up and of a sociopolitical mindset that's a far cry from his mom's.

With series creator Diane English again at the helm, the new Murphy is sure to be just as bold in its convictions – convictions that earned it 18 Emmy wins in 62 nominations and, famously, the wrath of then Vice President Dan Quayle. Bergen herself took home five Emmys, until she modestly spurned more nominations. Says Bergen in a teaser clip for the reboot, the gang is there to "take on this crazy new world of alternative facts and fake news. It's our civic duty. And besides, you missed us. You know you did." And it's true.

CBS

THE CONNERS

ABC

Premieres: Oct. 16

Airs: Tuesdays at 8pm

Who's In It? John Goodman, Laurie Metcalf, Sara Gilbert, Lecy Goranson, Michael Fishman

What's It All About? Roseanne sans Roseanne Barr. ABC's spring reboot of Roseanne was a hit, and then a racist tweet by Barr resulted in her swift firing and the show's cancellation. With Barr out, the rest of the Roseanne cast will try to salvage something from the show's success in The Conners. It won't be easy. For all her outrageousness, Roseanne (the character) was still the hub that held the Conner family wheel in place and the source of its best jokes. Will the audience that boosted the Roseanne reboot outright reject The Conners? And will the viewers who watch the premiere to see how Roseanne's absence is explained come back for the ongoing adventures of Darlene (Gilbert), Becky (Goranson) and D.J. (Fishman)?

THE COOL KIDS

FOX

Premieres: Sept. 28 Airs: Fridays at 8:30pm

Who's In It? David Alan Grier, Martin Mull, Vicki Lawrence, Leslie Jordan

What's It All About? It's like It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia for the senior set. It's Always Sunny's Charlie Day is creator and executive producer of this multi-cam comedy about a tightknit group of pals living in Shady Meadows Retirement Community. Fun-loving Hank (Grier) is the crew's leader and master mischief maker. Charlie (Mull) has countless tales, many of which may have involved drugs in the '60s. Hypochondriac Sid (Jordan) is the group's wet blanket, yet he always caves to peer pressure. When their close friend Jerry dies, there's suddenly an open seat at the dining hall's "cool kids" table, and it's snapped up by no-nonsense newcomer Margaret (Lawrence). That doesn't sit well with the gents, and high jinks ensue! With its brilliantly talented cast, we'd be begging over if The Cool Kids didn't enjoy a few golden years.

Casting The "Cool Kids"

Believe it or not, despite being longtime stars in the industry, this talented cast still went through auditions. "They wanna make sure you're still home," Jordan tells us. "I went in, and I said, 'Well, I'm going to put a little different spin on this.'" And the minute Jordan opened his mouth, they knew they had their guy. Lawrence laughed as she explained the usual reaction she gets on auditions. "People always say, 'Oh, we thought you were gonna be much older.' Because they're expecting [my Carol Burnett character Mama] to walk in the room." They forget she was just 24 when she started playing that role. In addition to the series' core foursome, the show does lend itself to potential guest spots. Jamie Farr (*M*A*S*H*) snuck in for the pilot. "I'm hoping Carol will walk in," Lawrence says. "As a crazy old lady that we have no idea what to do with. Just out of her flippin' mind!" Whoever the guests, the casting on this one couldn't be better.

REL FOX

Premieres: Sept. 9 at 8pmET/ 5pmPT Airs: Sundays at 9:30pm beginning Sept. 30

Who's In It? Lil Rel Howery, Jordan L. Jones, Jessica Moore, Sinbad

What's It All About? In this sitcom based on his life, Howery (Get Out) plays Rel, a Chicago husband and father who finds out his wife has been sleeping with his barber, quite possibly the worst person for her to fool around with. When his ex and their kids move to Cleveland, Rel is left in Chicago having to start over with a new life (and a new barber). Helping him pick up the pieces and get back into the dating pool are his brother (Jones), his best friend (Moore), his dad (Sinbad) and his pastor (also played by Howery). Howery is likable, and our TV can always use more Sinbad, but Rel just doesn't cut it. FOX previews Rel after an NFL doubleheader Sept. 9. It returns for its regular (and much tougher) time slot premiere on Sept. 30.

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT ABC

Premieres: Oct. 16

Airs: Tuesdays at 8:30pm

Who's In It? Mary McCormack, Michael Cudlitz, Sam Straley, Jack Gore, Caleb Foote

What's It All About? Set in the 1970s, this single-camera comedy follows the 10-member Irish Catholic Cleary family and their lives in suburban Los Angeles. Parents Peggy (McCormack) and Mike (Cudlitz) want what's best for their eight sons, so long as it doesn't cost anything. Their carefully ordered family dynamic is thrown into chaos when eldest son Lawrence (Straley) comes home from the seminary and announces to everyone at church bingo night that he's dropping out. McCormack shines as the high-strung matriarch trying to live up to impossible expectations ("We do not have the wherewithal in this family for any of you kids to be special!").

"I think how I was raised helped me play Peggy," McCormack, who hails from an Irish-Catholic upbringing herself, told us. "She reminds me of my parents and my aunts, and all the Irish women in my life. ... [Also,] being a parent [myself], and knowing how busy it is, helps. Whenever your role and your life intersect, it's always better for the work."

Barely recognizable from his days as Abraham on The Walking Dead, Cudlitz presides over the family with an understated authority ("My father, Michael Lawrence Cleary, he scratched at the earth for a living. I want my sons reaching for the stars."). Heartfelt and funny, The Kids Are Alright is much better than alright.

KIDDING Showtime

Premieres: Sept. 9

Airs: Sundays at 10pm

Who's In It? Jim Carrey, Frank Langella, Catherine Keener, Judy Greer

What's It All About? Imagine if Fred Rogers' life outside of his Neighborhood had completely gone to hell. Carrey plays Jeff Pickles, better known to young TV viewers as Mr. Pickles from the long-running series Mr. Pickles' Puppet Time. Mr. Pickles uses puppets and fairy tales to aid countless kids through their fears and anxieties, but none of that can help Jeff when his off-camera life implodes and he slowly loses his mind. Langella plays Mr. Pickles' executive producer, Keener plays the show's puppet maker and Greer plays Jeff's estranged wife.

SINGLE PARENTS

ABC

Premieres: Sept. 26

Airs: Wednesdays at 9:30pm

Who's In It? Taran Killam, Leighton Meester, Brad Garrett, Kimrie Lewis, Jake Choi

What's It All About? Will Cooper (Killam) is a newly single dad who is "deep in the vortex" – he's so wrapped up in his daughter's life that he's lost touch with his own. Case in point: He doesn't own a chair that isn't a bean bag. Will's enthusiasm for volunteering in his daughter's class irks the other unmarried moms and dads who are struggling to meet the lowest of expectations. As Angie (Meester) says, "We're single parents. We don't volunteer. We just try and survive until a time in the day when it's appropriate to open wine." Angie and her cohorts Douglas (Garrett), Miggy (Choi) and Poppy (Lewis) band together to help Will find himself – and maybe a girlfriend or two – once again. With plenty of funny been-there scenarios parents single or otherwise can relate to, we recommend a deep dive into the Single Parents vortex.

CAMPING

HBO

Premieres: Oct. 14

Who's In It? Jennifer Garner, David Tennant, Juliette Lewis, Arturo del Puerto, Ione Skye

What's It All About? In this eight-episode series, control-freak Kathryn (Garner) gets a group together for a camping trip to celebrate her husband Walt's (Tennant) birthday. Things get out of control quickly and hilariously as personalities clash, marriages are tested and secrets from the past come out.

HAPPY TOGETHER

CBS

Premieres: Oct. 1

Airs: Mondays at 8:30pm

Who's In It? Damon Wayans Jr., Amber Stevens West, Felix Mallard, Stephnie Weir, Victor Williams, Chris Parnell

What's It All About? Jake (Wayans) and Claire (West) are a married couple in their early 30s who have to schedule Saturday Night Coursework (i.e., sex) but still make time every week to record silly outgoing voicemail messages on their landline. Jake is an accountant for Australian pop star Cooper James (Mallard), who unexpectedly shows up at their house looking for a place to hide from paparazzi. Cooper becomes enthralled with Jake and Claire's suburban life and their Toaster Strudels. Jake and Claire find that Cooper makes them feel "young and fun and full of beans" again. Thinking maybe Cooper needs someone to look out for his best interests, Jake and Claire invite Cooper to live with them on a more permanent basis. Happy Together will wear out its welcome by the third episode.

All times ET/PT unless noted.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD

CBS

Premieres: Oct. 1

Airs: Mondays at 8pm

Who's In It? Cedric the Entertainer, Max Greenfield, Beth Behrs, Tichina Arnold, Marcel Spears, Sheاون McKinney

What's It All About? Dave (New Girl's Greenfield) and Gemma (2 Broke Girls's Behrs), a white couple from Michigan, move into a black neighborhood in Los Angeles, and — surprise! — they find it's harder to fit in than they thought. Cedric the Entertainer plays their next-door neighbor Calvin, who is distrustful of the newcomers and thinks they're going to gentrify the neighborhood ("This is a black neighborhood, something built for us by us."). Making matters worse, Dave tries embarrassingly hard to gain Calvin's approval. The Neighborhood has potential but too often stumbles over its positive premise of inclusivity with jokes that fall flat. CBS has often been criticized for a lack of diversity in its lineup, and The Neighborhood tries too hard to fit in.

THIS FUNCTIONAL FAMILY

truTV

Premieres: Fall

Who's In It? Voice of Jo Koy

What's It All About? Half-white, half-Filipino comedian Koy is creator of this animated comedy based on his own "fractured, patched-up, multiracial, dysfunctional family," according to truTV. Koy's funniest standup bits are stories about and impressions of his Filipina mother, who thought Vicks VapoRub was a cure-all, talked trash at Nintendo Wii games and punished her kids with two-hour lectures. If This Functional Family is half as good as Koy's comedy shows, truTV has an animated hit on its hands.

I FEEL BAD

NBC

Premieres: Oct. 4

Airs: Thursdays at 9:30pm

Who's In It? Sarayu Blue, Paul Adelstein, Madhur Jaffrey, Aisling Bea, James Buckley

What's It All About? That one little bad thing that makes you forget how good you are. A few examples from the show's title sequence are "I Lie to My Kids," "I Can't Explain Everything," "I Hate Other People's Children," "I Miss Important Moments" and "I Kill the Mood." Emet (Blue) is a wife and mom of three who's also a successful artist for a videogame developer. She leads a team of nerdy millennial males who spend much of their workdays getting stuck on the rock-climbing wall and sketching unrealistic images of digital heroines. At home, she tries her best to manage the family while trying not to become like her demanding mother (Jaffrey).

There are some laughs — especially from Emet's crew of geeks — but we have a bad feeling I Feel Bad won't resonate with the right audience.

THE HUNT FOR THE TRUMP TAPES WITH TOM ARNOLD

Viceland

Premieres: Sept. 18

Airs: Tuesdays at 10:30pm

Who's In It? Tom Arnold, guest appearances by Arnold Schwarzenegger, Rosie O'Donnell, Judd Apatow, Anthony Scaramucci

What's It All About? Arnold is on a quest to find embarrassing or incriminating recordings of President Trump in this reality/comedy show with a serious goal. Arnold has been intensely critical of the president, and he's looking for that ultimate bit of evidence that ousts Trump from the Oval Office. "I am going to continue to do this until that guy resigns and the world is a little bit safer," Arnold says. Arnold's top target is The Apprentice producer Mark Burnett, who Arnold believes possesses many hours of Trump-behaving-badly outtakes. "I'm going to just keep hammering Mark Burnett until he shows America that," Arnold says. According to Viceland, if Arnold actually does find something they consider newsworthy, they will release it outside of the show.

RETURNING FAVES

THE GOOD PLACE

NBC

Returns: Sept. 27 at 8pm

Where We Left Off: Thanks to Michael's (Emmy nominee Ted Danson) finagling, Eleanor (Kristen Bell), Chidi (William Jackson Harper), Tahani (Jameela Jamil) and Jason (Manny Jacinto) were given a second chance at life on Earth.

What To Expect: It's raining shrimp! The Good Place will continue to surprise and amaze in Season 3. Mike O'Malley guest-stars as the Guard in the hourlong season premiere episode.

THE ORVILLE

FOX

Returns: Dec. 30

Where We Left Off: With a lot of uncertainty about where The Orville, both the TV series and the spacecraft, was heading.

What To Expect: Creator and star Seth MacFarlane says The Orville will be "more comfortable in its footing" after an uneven first season that shifted in tone between comedy and drama. MacFarlane says Season 2 will be more focused on its storytelling, and "every episode feels like a movie." Jessica Szohr joins as a series regular with fellow Gossip Girl vet Leighton Meester guest-starring. Star Trek TV alumni John Billingsley, Marina Sirtis, Tim Russ and Robert Picardo also have guest spots.

THE BIG BANG THEORY

CBS

Returns:

Sept. 24 at 8pm

Where We Left Off:

Sheldon (Jim Parsons) and Amy (Mayim Bialik) were married by Mark Hamill.

What To Expect: In Season 12, we'll see some of Sheldon and Amy's honeymoon, plus we'll see them work on their joint theory of "super asymmetry." The series debuts on Monday, Sept. 24, then moves to its regular day and time on Thursday, Sept. 27. CBS has yet to order the show beyond this season, but it's hard to imagine it will be the last.

IT'S ALWAYS SUNNY IN PHILADELPHIA

FXX

Returns: Sept. 5 at 10pm

Where We Left Off: Dennis (Glenn Howerton) moved to North Dakota to be a dad, while Charlie (Charlie Day) got the Waitress to move in with him.

What To Expect: The gang might be without Dennis in Season 13, but expect Charlie, Mac (Rob McElhenney), Dee (Kaitlin Olson) and Frank (Danny DeVito) to go all out celebrating the Philadelphia Eagles' Super Bowl victory.

CRAZY EX-GIRLFRIEND

The CW

Returns: Oct. 12 at 9pm

Where We Left Off: Rebecca (Rachel Bloom) pleaded guilty to the attempted murder of her stalker ex Trent (Paul Welsh).

What To Expect: A little "Cell Block Tango," perhaps? A fourth and final 18-episode season of the musical dramedy has Rebecca taking responsibility for her actions and putting what she's learned into practice. Guest star Patton Oswalt reprises his role as security guard Castleman.

COMING MIDSEASON

ABBY'S (NBC) The best, most exclusive bar in San Diego happens to be in Abby's (Natalie Morales) backyard, where there are rules (no cellphones) and your seat has to be earned.

FAM (CBS) Clem (Nina Dobrev) and her fiancé Jay (Tone Bell) have their lives upended when Clem's out-of-control, teenage half-sister (Odessa Adlon) unexpectedly comes to live with them.

SCHOOLED (ABC)

This spinoff of The Goldbergs is set in the 1990s and follows William Penn Academy faculty members Principal Glascott (Tim Meadows), Coach Mellor (Bryan Callen) and Lainey Lewis (A.J. Michalka).

TACOMA FD (truTV)

What do firemen do in Tacoma, Wash., the wettest city in America? Kevin Heffernan and Steve Lemme of Super Troopers star as firefighters who mostly fight boredom.

UNTITLED KEN JEONG PROJECT (truTV)

Ken Jeong (Dr. Ken) does another comic spin on his former career as a doctor in this series that spoofs medical advice call-in shows like Dr. Drew's.

NEW AMSTERDAM

NBC

Premieres: Sept. 25

Airs: Tuesdays at 10pm

Who's In It? Ryan Eggold, Freema Agyeman, Janet Montgomery, Jocko Sims, Anupam Kher

What's It All About? Though the drama begs a drinking game from the get-go – take a swig every time Dr. Max Goodwin says, “How can I help?” – by the end of the premiere episode, you’ll also be toasting your good fortune at discovering this absorbing, emotionally rich medical drama. And likely sobbing your eyes out, to boot. Taking its inspiration from New York City’s Bellevue, America’s oldest public health institution, the series centers on New Amsterdam hospital – “The Dam” for short – and its new medical director, the aforementioned Dr. Goodwin (The Blacklist’s Eggold, whose puppy-dog eyes scream compassion). Though he’s chock-a-block with troubles of his own, the people-centric Goodwin is determined to return the understaffed, underfunded hospital to glory from the inside out. Bureaucratic bigwigs? Turn in your keys. Gutsy docs with bold, humanitarian ideas? Ask and ye shall receive.

The series is actually inspired by Dr. Eric Manheimer’s memoir of working at Bellevue, which Eggold read and found profoundly moving. “He has such incredible stories about his time at Bellevue.

It’s hard to wrap my head around the reality of it,” Eggold tells us. “I think when people overload themselves with work in such a way, they are sort of potentially afraid to face something or be alone with something, so my big question with this character is, ‘What is he running from?’ Because it’s clear what he’s running toward, which is sort of trying to help people, trying to make a difference, trying to be of service, trying to get something done. He’s so invested in looking out at other people that I wonder, ‘Is he sort of afraid to look in?’ I don’t know the answer but I’m excited to find out, explore that.” With an immensely watchable supporting cast and pulse-pounding medical cases, New Amsterdam brings to mind ER and St. Elsewhere – appointment viewing you’re eager to keep.

TV REBOOTS

MAGNUM P.I. CBS

Premieres: Sept. 24

Airs: Mondays at 9pm

Who's In It? Jay Hernandez, Perdita Weeks, Zachary Knighton, Stephen Hill
What's It All About? This reboot of the 1980s Tom Selleck starrer doesn't stray too far from the crime-busting original. Void of the gaudy Hawaiian shirts, Hernandez, with a sexy five o'clock shadow, steps into the titular role playing the decorated ex-Navy-SEAL-turned-private-eye Thomas Magnum. As in the original, the charming rogue takes up residence and security details in the guest cottage – still called the Robin's Nest – on the posh estate of uber-rich, bestselling author Robin Masters, who before his fortune was a journalist embedded with Magnum's special ops team in Iraq. He owed Magnum and his POW buddies. The vintage cars (the iconic Ferraris are back and already taking a beating), the girls and the bravado are all playfully there as Magnum and his trusted buddies are righting the wrongs. The role of Higgins, the cranky British butler who was always peeved at Magnum, is now that of Higgin (a.k.a. Juliet Higgins) – a beautiful, yoga-loving, kickass, disavowed MI6 agent. In this fun, lighthearted revival, we're glad to see Magnum back on the case.

CHARMED The CW

Premieres: Oct. 14

Airs: Sundays at 9pm

Who's In It? Melonie Diaz, Sarah Jeffery, Madeleine Mantock, Rupert Evans
What's It All About? This is a fresh spin on the Aaron Spelling young adult drama, which aired from 1998-2006 and starred Shannen Doherty, Holly Marie Combs, Alyssa Milano and, later, Rose McGowan. Its leads were young females, their characters upheld a superhero-like mission of ridding the world of evil forces, and the series' depiction of strong female bonds was paramount to its appeal and success. The CW's Charmed is built on the feminist shoulders of its predecessor and continues in its tradition of female-centric storytelling. This iteration begins with Marisol (Valerie Cruz, in a recurring role) telling her daughters, "You're better together, your differences are your strengths, and nothing is stronger than your sisterhood," just before her sudden and mysterious death. Together, the sisters form an especially potent demon-hunting triad known as "the Charmed Ones."

TV REBOOT REPORT

Last season's revivals of Will & Grace and Roseanne proved that there still is a formula for success when it comes to bringing back fan favorites. Here we look at a handful of hits and misses over the years.

GOD FRIENDED ME CBS

Premieres: Sept. 30 at 8:30pm

Airs: Sundays at 8pm

Who's In It? Brandon Micheal Hall, Violet Beane, Joe Morton, Suraj Sharma, Javicia Leslie

What's It All About? Despite the fate of Living Biblically, CBS' midseason "Does He or doesn't He?" dramedy about God's existence, The Eye is swinging for the heavens again. Hall (The Mayor) stars as Miles, a preacher's son and podcaster whose show is devoted to ... the nonexistence of God ("We've got the whole Luke-Vader dynamic going on," quips Miles of his iffy relationship with Dad). Miles is just about to pitch "The Millennial Prophet" to Sirius XM when the deity – or someone convincingly pretending to be him – "friends" him on social media. The big guy won't take no for an answer. And then He starts suggesting other friends, all of whom the incredulous Miles encounters even if he doesn't approve the add. Whether those run-ins confirm the existence of God or not, well, they sure are life-affirming. The show requires suspension of disbelief that has nothing to do with God – characters never have to be at their jobs, a female character takes a road trip with a total stranger to another stranger's house where they break in without consequence, and so forth. But it's unabashedly feel-good, regardless of your religious inclinations or feelings about Facebook. If that's what you long for when you pick up the remote, you'll likely thank God – or at least uber-producer Greg Berlanti – for this one.

A MILLION LITTLE THINGS ABC

Premieres: Sept. 26

Airs: Wednesdays at 10pm

Who's In It? Ron Livingston, David Giuntoli, Romany Malco, Allison Miller, James Roday, Grace Park

What's It All About? Oh hey, Big Chill (only with the deceased semi-present, unlike poor Kevin Costner's Alex). Not that the comparison is a bad thing; in fact, Million's premiere episode is very, very good. The "all the feels" drama centers on a group of friends that formed when four Boston strangers – a successful businessman, a musician/stay-at-home dad, an aspiring filmmaker and an insurance guy in remission from breast cancer – got trapped in an elevator for hours, bonded over their anxieties and love of the Bruins and bought adjoining season tickets on good faith that their connection would last. Twelve years later, the gents think they know everything about each other – until one of them dies by his own hand, launching a genuinely moving chain of revelations, discoveries and self-discovery that happen over wine in stylish kitchens, at the dead man's memorial, around a backyard fire and other places that might make you wish you had a pithier group of friends. Each character – the men and the women in their lives – is independently interesting, and, while suicide is a sensitive topic, watching this tightknit group deal with their grief on their own and as a group makes for an hour of emotionally impactful television. And, the pilot's shocking closer will keep you coming back for more.

Premieres: Sept. 4

Airs: Tuesdays at 10pm

Who's In It? JD Pardo, Clayton Cardenas, Edward James Olmos, Sarah Bolger, Michael Irby, Carla Baratta, Danny Pino, Richard Cabral, Antonio Jaramillo, Raoul Max Trujillo

What's It All About? Kurt Sutter's long-awaited spinoff to Sons of Anarchy takes place in a post-Jax Teller world, about three years after his death. While there is a relationship between the Mayans and the Sons, there won't be any intersecting storylines – at least for this season – just acknowledgements, as well as Emilio Rivera reprising his role as Marcus Alvarez.

The series introduces EZ Reyes (Pardo), who is fresh out of prison and a new prospect for the Mayans M.C., a Latino outlaw motorcycle club.

"EZ Reyes is born from immigrant parents, looking for the American dream. He's extremely smart, has a photographic memory. He is the golden boy in his hometown. He is in Stanford. He has a girlfriend. Everything is just great for him," Pardo explains of his character's upbringing. "Then there's a tragic event, something happens that lands him in prison, and he spends about nine years in prison and that changes him. When he comes out, obviously, his opportunities are very limited. He is brought into the Mayans M.C. through his older brother, Angel Reyes [Cardenas]."

With this comes a lot of shame and guilt – a lot of regret, confusion and self-loathing – that he was supposed to be living a much different life. "Now he just finds himself in this world of darkness, and it's a bit like hell, and he's got to fight," Pardo says. "He's struggling to find a light, to find salvation, to make sense of what life is for him and what he's meant to do. I feel like it's a very universal story we can almost all relate to."

It is from there that EZ's Godfather-esque journey begins. And for Pardo, it's the beginning of his own dream. "I wanted this so bad, to work with Kurt Sutter," he shares of his audition. "It was such a beautiful experience. I got into my car, and I just started crying. I left everything out in that room."

To get ready for the role, the then 147-pound, 6-foot, extremely lean Pardo adjusted his diet and workouts to add almost 40 pounds of muscle, and then went to school. "I thought that I was going to blow my chances," Pardo says of not knowing how to ride a bike, but Sutter said, "Don't worry. Charlie [Hunnam] didn't know how to ride either." So off to Harley school he went.

"It's a huge responsibility to take on this role with Mayans. Sons of Anarchy has a huge fan base," Pardo says. "There's a responsibility to FX and obviously to Kurt Sutter for creating the Sons of Anarchy saga." – Barb Oates

LIFETIME

Premieres: Sept. 9

Airs: Sundays at 10pm

Who's In It? Penn Badgley, Elizabeth Lail, Shay Mitchell, John Stamos

What's It All About? Former Gossip Girl lead Badgley stars in this dark and sexy thriller as Joe, a bookstore employee who is on a quest for love and is willing to sink to incredible lows to get it. After a chance encounter with Beck (Lail), a struggling writer who goes by her surname, he uses his keen sense of observation, Google and his uncanny power of nefarious intervention to gain control of Beck's life and weave himself into it.

The series is based on the wildly popular bestseller by Caroline Kepnes and can be likened to Dexter meets Gone Girl meets The Talented Mr. Ripley meets American Psycho. It's also a biting social satire of the selfie-obsessed, "look at me, warts and all" generation, where the warts are perfectly lit and seen through a rose-colored filter.

The psychological series taps into when infatuation turns to obsession, and the fun in You comes from watching the relationship between Joe and Beck as it travels from a meet-cute to something much, much darker. "You see a person who maybe for the first 30 percent of his endeavor is kind of doing what everyone else is doing in a romantic comedy, but then he's just following it through. He's not saved by his boyish charm in the end. He's complete victim to his maniacal obsession," Badgley shares. "What ends up being captivating for people is seeing how initially they can relate and then seeing at what point has Joe crossed a line that we wouldn't."

Joe is horrible, and horribly likable, but Badgley reveals that while he loves Kepnes' writing, he wasn't sure he wanted to take on the role of the gentleman stalker. "There's a lot that is extremely disturbing," he reveals, "to the point that I was really conflicted and will always remain conflicted about playing him." Lifetime has already picked up the series for a second season, which will continue Joe's story as he heads from New York to Los Angeles and will be based on Kepnes' equally dark sequel, Hidden Bodies. — Kellie Freeze

MANIFEST NBC

Premieres: Sept. 24
Airs: Mondays at 10pm
Who's In It? Melissa Roxburgh, Josh Dallas, Athena Karkanis, J.R. Ramirez, Luna Blaise, Jack Messina, Parveen Kaur
What's It All About? This one will make you think if splitting up the family before boarding a flight is a good idea. The Lost-like mysterious drama finds the passengers of Montego Air Flight 828 relieved to land after a turbulent flight, until they learn that their plane went missing five years ago. While the passengers have barely aged a minute, the rest of the world has, and their friends, families and colleagues have mourned their loss and moved on without them. The premise of second chances and a deeper mystery unfolding – there is a significance in 828 – is enough for us to believe this series will take off.

NIGHTFLYERS Syfy

Premieres: Late 2018
Who's In It? Eoin Macken, Gretchen Mol, David Ajala, Jodie Turner-Smith
What's It All About? Fans of author George R.R. Martin's works may still have over half a year to wait until the premiere of the eighth and final season of Game of Thrones, but in the meantime, they can satisfy themselves with this series adaptation of Martin's acclaimed 1980 novella that shows he can write science fiction just as well as fantasy (with a touch of horror thrown in, for good measure). The setup: In 2093, hoping to make contact with a mysterious alien life at the edge of our solar system, a group of maverick scientists and a powerful telepath embark on an expedition aboard the ship Nightflyer. As they race toward first contact, terrifying and violent events begin to occur, causing the once tightknit crew to mistrust each other. It's not long before their main mission becomes survival.

THE PURGE

USA Network
Premieres: Sept. 4
Airs: Tuesdays at 10pm
Who's In It? Gabriel Chavarria, Jessica Garza, Amanda Warren, Billy Baldwin, Fiona Dourif
What's It All About? Radio and TV personalities hype the propaganda of America – the land of the free, where every year for a 12-hour period all crime is legal during the Purge. Americans are free to choose how they will spend this “evening of infinite possibility.” Based on the popular horror films, the 10-episode eerie social study of a series follows several seemingly unrelated characters – a charismatic cult leader, a U.S. Marine preparing to face the senseless violence alone in order to protect his family, a finance professional who's convinced she's hit the glass ceiling at her firm and hires a Purge assassin, an anti-Purger devoted to charitable causes who ventures out for the first time, and a man climbing the social ladder who struggles with what moral price to pay to achieve the American dream. Will they run? Will they hide? Will they seek, hunt, avenge, steal, cheat and/or kill?

DRAMA

Premieres: Sept. 25

Airs: Tuesdays at 9pm

Who's In It? Missy Peregrym, Zeeko Zaki, Jeremy Sisto, Ebonee Noel

What's It All About? Ever-prolific producer Dick Wolf (of the Law & Order and Chicago franchises fame) is back with another procedural crime drama, this one focused on New York City's office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The typical Wolf formula is here, especially in its setup of a "drawn from the headlines" type of incident kicking off a case that the show's leads investigate. As expected from a Wolf production, characters and their camaraderie are on display here, especially in leads Peregrym and Zaki as Special Agents Maggie Bell and Omar Adom "OA" Zidan, who at the start seem to be feeling each other out as partners, and who each have their own challenges to work with. Maggie is quietly mourning what seems to be the fairly recent death of her husband, while Omar – despite being a West Point grad and former undercover DEA agent – still runs up against prejudice toward his background. Watching where this relationship goes, along with seeing what are likely to be equally compelling and timely cases as the series progresses, should be gripping. We expect FBI will be another hit in CBS' (and Wolf's) stable.

MY BRILLIANT FRIEND

HBO

Premieres: November

Who's In It? Elisa Del Genio, Ludovica Nasti, Margherita Mazzucco, Gaia Girace

What's It All About? The first installment of author Elena Ferrante's "Neapolitan Quartet" comes to HBO in the network's inaugural foray into foreign-language programming. The beautiful series follows the dramatic, 60-year friendship of Elena Greco and Raffaella "Lila" Cerullo as they grow from poor schoolgirls in postwar Naples through adulthood and into old age. The first season of the show follows the girls from childhood into their teen years. The series was filmed in the regionally specific Neapolitan dialect. Newcomers Del Genio and Nasti deliver spellbinding performances as Elena and Lila as children, while Mazzucco and Girace take masterful turns as the teen versions of the girls. Through a translator, all four actresses revealed their excitement in breathing life into the beloved books and gaining new understanding for the era-specific struggles witnessed by their parents, aunts, uncles and grandparents.

THE LITTLE DRUMMER GIRL AMC

Premieres: November

Who's In It? Alexander Skarsgård, Florence Pugh, Michael Shannon

What's It All About? This six-part miniseries brings John le Carré's 1983 spy novel of the same name to television; it was also turned into a theatrical film in 1984, which starred Diane Keaton and Klaus Kinski. The thriller is set in the 1970s and follows Charlie (Pugh), a radical British actress who, while vacationing in Greece, meets a mysterious stranger (Skarsgård) who recruits her to act as bait to help stop a global terror plot. Le Carré's sons, Simon and Stephen Cornwell, are executive producers and reveal that they have their father's blessing to diverge from his original work to discover fresh and exciting ways to tell the story.

ALL AMERICAN The CW

Premieres: Oct. 10

Airs: Wednesdays at 9pm

Who's In It? Daniel Ezra, Taye Diggs, Bre-Z, Samantha Logan, Greta Onieogou, Monet Mazur

What's It All About? This fish-out-of-water tale marries Friday Night Lights with honest social commentary and is inspired by the true story of NFL player Spencer Paysinger, who also serves as an executive producer on the project. In this athletic drama, Spencer James (Ezra) is a high school football star and top student at South Crenshaw High in one of Los Angeles' toughest and most dangerous neighborhoods. When Beverly High School's football coach Billy Baker (Diggs) recruits him to join his team, Spencer faces an identity crisis as he navigates the gritty south side neighborhood that shaped him and the affluent world that has opened up to him.

MR INBETWEEN

Premieres: Sept. 25

Airs: Tuesdays at 11pm

Who's In It? Scott Ryan, Damon Herriman, Justin Rosniak, Brooke Satchwell, Jackson Tozer, Nicholas Cassim, Chika Yasumura

What's It All About? Ray Shoemsmith

(Ryan) is kinda like the Ray Donovan of the Australian world, only not as good-looking and nowhere near as wealthy. And a bit like HBO's Barry (Bill Hader), a man of few words but all business when on the job. This entertaining, half-hour Australian dramedy follows Ray's dysfunctional day-to-day life as a criminal-for-hire. A heartwarming yet brutal story we are hooked on.

FX

THE ROOKIE ABC

Premieres: Oct. 16

Airs: Tuesdays at 10pm

Who's In It? Nathan Fillion, Melissa O'Neil, Titus Makin Jr., Alyssa Diaz, Richard T. Jones, Mercedes Mason, Eric Winter

What's It All About? Fillion finally gets a real uniform and badge! Or at least John Nolan – the 40-something Midwestern divorcé turned rookie L.A.P.D. officer that Fillion plays – does. It may take an episode or two for Castle devotees to not see Richard Castle in Nolan as he tries to prove his worth to a bunch of skeptical cops and finds himself in dangerous spots he may or may not be equipped to handle. As the departmental butt of the joke, Fillion is allowed a bit of physical comedy and a few zingers as Nolan. But Rookie is a true police-procedural drama, focusing on the affable Nolan, his youthful fellow rookies (O'Neil and Makin Jr.) and their gruff training officers.

ESCAPE AT DANNEMORA

Showtime

Premieres: Nov. 18 at 10pm

Who's In It? Benicio Del Toro, Patricia Arquette, Paul Dano

What's It All About? This ripped-from-the-headlines, eight-part limited series is directed and executive produced by Ben Stiller. A real-life story too good to go untold in a drama series, the mini takes us back to 2015 in upstate New York, where two convicted murderers mastermind their escapes by seducing a married female prison employee. A report from the Office of the Inspector General in New York declared that a total of 20 uniformed and civilian employees enabled the escape in some fashion.

RETURNING

THIS IS US

NBC

Returns: Sept. 25 at 9pm

Where We Left Off: In the Season 2 finale, the timeline jumped ahead a year, revealing Kevin (Justin Hartley) on a flight to Vietnam with Zoe (new cast member Melanie Liburd), presumably to explore the wartime experience of his father, Jack (Milo Ventimiglia). We also saw Kate (Chrissy Metz) tending to her husband, Toby (Chris Sullivan), who is in the midst of a crippling bout of depression. The glimpse also showed, in the far future, Randall (Sterling K. Brown) and his now adult daughter, Tess (guest star Iantha Richardson), preparing to face a mystery woman. "It's time to go see her," he tells Tess, but neither is ready. With so many tantalizing tidbits offered by series creator Dan Fogelman in the season finale, the show's ravenous fans are starving to find out what's next for the beloved series. Channel Guide Magazine caught up with star Chris Sullivan to get the inside scoop on what's next for the series and his character, Toby.

At the end of Season 2, we see normally jovial Toby in a profound state of depression. Where do we start the season with him?

Chris Sullivan: This season kind of picks up where we left off, and we'll find out what is on his mind, the things he's kind of struggling with, and the things they're struggling with as a couple, but the story essentially picks up right where Season 2 left off, so nobody misses any of the action.

One of the things that we love about Toby is his ability to interject levity into any situation. How do you feel about showing your character's vulnerabilities in Season 3?

I think that the more sides we show of each of these characters, the more the audience connects and latches on to their well-being, and the nature of all their relationships. I don't think you really know anyone until you've seen their suffering or their sadness. That's kind of the crucible with which a person is formed.

What was your reaction to reading the first episode of Season 3?

My jaw kind of hit the floor when I read it. There is no writers room in the city of Los Angeles that beats our writers room. They are just so good, and they continue to turn out masterpieces. ... Episode 1 of Season 3 should be just as exciting and surprising as any other episode that the audience has seen so far.

Chrissy Metz revealed that the script of the first episode had her sobbing uncontrollably. What was your cry level while reading it?

Let's see, on a level of 1 to Chrissy, I was probably a Sterling [Laughs].

Whose journey are you most excited for America to watch this season?

I'm a huge fan of Justin Hartley's, and we saw in Season 2 just what that beautiful man is capable of, as far as his acting goes. So I'm excited to see more of that this season.

Toby's fashion sense is pretty amazing. What do you think is stronger, his hat game or his shoe game?

You know, a hat is a delicate thing. There's a right place and a wrong place for a hat. I certainly, personally, have had my own hat triumphs and hat failures, so I would say his shoe game is literally the foundation. I mean, shoes make an outfit. You build a whole outfit around a pair of shoes, so I would say Toby's shoes. — Kellie Freeze

THE WALKING DEAD AMC

Where We Left Off: A mighty showdown between the Saviors and a tenuously united Alexandria/Hilltop/Kingdom army left Negan half-dead and wholly vulnerable, while Rick's unwillingness to finish him off left a pregnant Maggie cold. Ice cold.

What To Expect: In short: a considerable time jump, Rick's demise and some serious girl power. Co-executive producer Angela Kang takes over showrunning duties in Season 9 and promises more people-centric storytelling as even the strongest relationships are tested and the TWD ladies assert their power like never before. Executive producer Robert Kirkman says that Andrew Lincoln's Rick Grimes will be exiting this season, but when and how remains a mystery. Lincoln, who is keen to make movies, will appear in just six Season 9 episodes. And while Lauren Cohan's Maggie Rhee seems the heir apparent to Rick's leadership role, Cohan's contract battles with producers and starring role on ABC's upcoming Whiskey Cavalier would indicate otherwise. (Fear not, Daryl lovers. Norman Reedus is negotiating a hefty contract to keep totin' that crossbow.) — Lori Acken

AMERICAN HORROR STORY: APOCALYPSE FX

Returns: Sept. 12 at 10pm

Where We Left Off: The politically themed bloodbath "Cult" found a woman winning the Senate seat and slipping on a hooded robe.

What To Expect: The anthology series' eighth season (it's already renewed for two more) is a crossover between Season 1's Murder House and Season 3's Coven, and features the return of Jessica Lange. Joining Lange are Sarah Paulson, Kathy Bates, Emma Roberts, Evan Peters, Adina Porter, Billie Lourd and Leslie Grossman. Lange resurfaces as Constance in the sixth episode, which Paulson directs. "The story begins with the end of the world," says Alexis Martin Woodall, executive producer. "And then our world begins." Eighteen months in the future, Cordelia continues reigning as Supreme of the Coven of Salem descendants. Well, "Supreme — for now," Paulson says of her character. "I don't know how long that's going to last. And enjoyment is not possible at this particular juncture of the story." Roberts reprises her role as Madison Montgomery, sharing that the director told her "to be bitchier, which I did not think was possible." Apologizing for being so cryptic, Woodall summarizes the season without giving away much. "It's a combination of new faces and new roles and old friends," she says. "People will be scared. People will die." — Jacqueline Cutler

COMING MIDSEASON

THE CODE (CBS) This legal drama pulls together the military's brightest minds with active-duty Marines who are attorneys seeking military justice at home and abroad.

THE ENEMY WITHIN (NBC)

AMANPOUR AND COMPANY PBS

Premieres: Sept. 10 at 10pm

Airs: Weeknights at 11pm

What's It All About? News veteran Christiane Amanpour hosts this late-night public-affairs show, which is a collaboration between CNN and PBS' New York station, WNET. The nightly series is an expansion of Amanpour's CNN series, Amanpour, and her time as Charlie Rose's replacement on his eponymous PBS series. Amanpour and Company will feature Amanpour leading in-depth conversations on issues of the day – ranging from politics, business and technology to arts, science and sports – with pundits, leaders and influencers. Journalists Walter Isaacson, Michel Martin, Alicia Menendez and Hari Sreenivasan will also contribute to the one-hour show.

THE ALEC BALDWIN SHOW ABC

Premieres: Oct. 14

Airs: Sundays at 10pm

What's It All About? This one-hour weekly talk show will showcase Alec Baldwin's in-depth conversations with who he believes to be some of the most interesting people in American pop culture. The series – then called Sundays With Alec Baldwin – had a sneak peek in March, following the broadcast of the 90th Academy Awards. In it, Baldwin interviewed comedian Jerry Seinfeld and SNL standout Kate McKinnon. Baldwin also hosts a similarly formatted podcast, Here's the Thing With Alec Baldwin, which debuted in 2011, so this series is a natural expansion of that show. "I'm excited about this show and grateful to ABC for taking a chance on me in what is, admittedly, a crowded field," said Baldwin.

BUSY TONIGHT E!

Premieres: Oct. 28

Airs: Sundays–Wednesdays at 10pm

What's It All About? This talk show is hosted by actress Busy Philipps and features comedic commentary, interviews and segments that go behind her most popular Instagram stories. Philipps is totally unfiltered, in-the-know and always entertaining, and will unapologetically give her unique and hilarious point of view on literally everything.

BRAVO'S PLAY BY PLAY Bravo

Premieres: Fall

What's It All About? This new late-night talk show is executive produced by Andy Cohen and avid Bravo-watcher/actor Jerry O'Connell. Each episode features O'Connell, alongside a panel of celebrities, comics and tastemakers, discussing the buzziest Bravo moments and a variety of topics steeped in pop culture.

POD SAVE AMERICA HBO

Premieres: October

What's It All About? These four hourlong specials are based on a popular podcast of the same name, cohosted by a quartet of former aides to President Barack Obama: speechwriter Jon Favreau (not to be confused with the actor/director), Senior Advisor Dan Pfeiffer, National Security spokesperson Tommy Vietor, and Jon Lovett, a former Obama joke writer, who also wrote and produced for HBO's The Newsroom. The specials will follow the campaign trail in the run-up to the 2018 midterm elections.

REALITY

PUPPARAZZI NAT GEO WILD

Premieres: Sept. 15

Airs: Saturdays at 10pmET/ 7pmPT

What's It All About? Pet photographer Kaylee Greer is one of the most sought-after "dogtographers" in the world, and her impressive portfolio showcases her ability to capture the silly side of man's best friend. This heartwarming three-part miniseries follows her as she and her fiancé Sam shoot ad campaigns for major brands, create wacky themed portraits for private clients and facilitate photo shoots for shelter dogs in the hopes of helping them find forever homes.

"I get to do some really amazing things," says Greer, whose candy-colored red hair is as vibrant as her personality. "I get to shoot ads for Pedigree and these big pet food companies with all this money behind them, and see that world. Then I explore the complete opposite, which is the shelter world and the dogs who really have nothing and have nobody." Greer shares that photographing shelter dogs is her life's proudest work. "A photo says a thousand words. We have such a small amount of time to capture someone's attention. It's all there in that image, in that dog's eyes, their story," she says. "The most important thing of all to me is making sure that I'm doing justice to the animals that have no voice. It's about giving a voice to an animal that has no way to tell their story for themselves."

REAL COUNTRY USA Network

Premieres: Nov. 13 Airs: Tuesdays at 10pm

What's It All About? This country music showcase features superstar Shania Twain, award-winning singer-songwriter Jake Owen and music legend Travis Tritt on a mission to find the future stars of country music. In each hourlong episode, Twain, Owen and Tritt hand-select emerging solo artists, duos and groups to perform in showcases that spotlight the rich traditions, songs and themes of specific country genres. The best artists from each showcase will perform in a grand finale for the chance to be named one of country music's next breakout acts.

MODEL SQUAD E!

Premieres: Sept. 4-6 & 10-14 at 8pm

What's It All About? This docuseries follows high-profile models Daniela Braga, Olivia Culpo, Hannah Ferguson, Ping Hue, Nadine Leopold, Caroline Lowe, Ashley Moore, Shanina Shaik and Devon Windsor as they prepare for the fall fashion season, and try to juggle relationships, friendships and the demands of the cutthroat fashion industry.

MAMA MEDIUM

TLC

Premieres: Late 2018

What's It All About? TLC continues to channel people connected to the afterlife – think Theresa Caputo's Long Island Medium and Rosie Cepero's Angels Among Us. In this sure-to-be emotional series, cameras follow Jennie Marie, a fourth-generation clairvoyant, mother, wife, medium and psychic, at her home in Rochester, N.Y., as she and her four sons (some of whom also share some of her abilities) help people connect on a deeper level.

DANCING WITH THE STARS: JUNIORS ABC

Premieres: Oct. 7

Airs: Sundays at 8pm

What's It All About? This fresh take on an established favorite pairs celebrity kids with professional junior ballroom dancers to perform choreographed routines. The judges' panel will include renowned ballroom experts, but we haven't yet heard if the usual DWTS judges — Len Goodman, Carrie Ann Inaba and Bruno Tonioli — will appear in this season.

ASHLEE+EVAN E!

Premieres: Sept. 9

Airs: Sundays at 10pm

What's It All About? Back in 2003, Jessica Simpson and Nick Lachey's

MTV series Newlyweds became a pop culture phenomenon and catapulted the young singers into stardom, and eventually divorce. Now, 15 years later, Jessica's younger sister, actress and singer Ashlee Simpson-Ross, and Ashlee's husband, actor and artist Evan Ross, allow cameras to document their lives as new parents. Both members of this millennial power couple come from famous music families, and the series will capture this, showing their interactions and the recording of their first duet album as Ashlee cautiously jumps back into the music industry and Evan tries to follow in the footsteps of his mother, Diana.

BAKE IT LIKE BUDDY

Discovery Family

Premieres: Sept. 8

Airs: Saturdays at 9pm

What's It All About? TLC's Cake Boss Buddy Valastro and his family pit two extremely talented and creative baking family duos against each other at Carlo's Bakery in Hoboken, N.J., where they are given four hours to complete a baking challenge.

The teams are playing for $1,000 cash and professional baking supplies.

AMANDA TO THE RESCUE

ANIMAL PLANET

Premieres: Oct. 28 Airs: Sundays at 9pm

What's It All About? Through her Panda Paws Rescue, Amanda Giese rescues and rehabilitates animals that other people might consider hopeless. With her shaved head, multiple tattoos and raucous sense of humor, Amanda hopes to prove that looks can be deceiving and greatness lies within. Helping Amanda in her endeavor are her two kids — Jade and Beast — and her partner Gary, who care for the animals in their Washington home. Where others see animals with no hope, Amanda sees animals full of love who need her help.

HAUNTED LIVE

Travel Channel

Premieres: Sept. 14

Airs: Fridays at 10pm

What's It All About? Promised to be an intense and suspenseful live event every week, this interactive series takes us along for a scare with the Tennessee Wraith Chasers, the paranormal dudes from Destination America's Ghost Asylum, as they investigate haunted locations and paranormal activity. Through a series of live-streaming social feeds, viewers can monitor the activity and help guide the investigation in real time.

JANE FONDA IN FIVE ACTS

HBO

Premieres: Sept. 24 at 8pm

What's It All About? Documentarian Susan Lacy, who created PBS' acclaimed American Masters series and directed last year's outstanding Spielberg for HBO, is back with another fascinating profile in this two-hour-plus film about the incredible life of Oscar-winning actress Jane Fonda.

Even as she has continued her esteemed acting career over the decades, Fonda has also taken on many other roles over the years as she has embarked on the various "acts" of her life – from big-screen sex symbol in the '60s, especially in the film Barbarella, to political activist starting in the '70s (she is still vilified in some conservative circles today as "Hanoi Jane" because of her Vietnam-era activism) to a leg-warmer-clad video aerobics instructor and fitness tycoon starting in the '80s to author and current star of a hit streaming series.

Fonda talks about these and other parts of her life – including personal elements like her own secret insecurities, a decades-long eating disorder, and her tendency to be drawn to diametrically opposed, if not controlling, men – in a series of 21 hours of interviews conducted with Lacy and culled down for this film.

Along with Fonda, the film includes interviews with Robert Redford, Lily Tomlin (with whom Fonda currently stars in Netflix's Grace and Frankie), former spouses Tom Hayden and Ted Turner, and others.

At the Television Critics Association press conference this summer, Lacy told reporters that Fonda had not seen the film until it was finished. "I was nervous," the director admitted.

"It's hard to watch a documentary about yourself," Fonda told the group.

The first four acts of Fonda's life are named after the four men who shared and influenced her personal and professional ambitions. The fifth act is named after Fonda herself, and though still busy and active, the now 80-something Fonda calls this part of her life the beginning of her last act.

"I'm only 80," Fonda said, "and you know, there's still a few decades to go, if I'm lucky, and why be alive if you're not learning and changing and growing?"

"I think that the purpose is to try to figure out how do you keep doing it. You know, you may not be able to make your life longer, but you can make it deeper and wider." – Jeff Pfeiffer

WARRIORS OF LIBERTY CITY

Premieres: Sept. 16

Airs: Sundays at 8pm

STARZ

What's It All About? NBA star LeBron James is an executive producer behind this six-part series about the titular Liberty City, a crime-ridden Miami neighborhood that is also known as not only the hometown of acclaimed Moonlight director Barry Jenkins, but also as having produced some of the biggest names in the NFL, including Devonta Freeman, Antonio Brown, Duke Johnson and Teddy Bridgewater.

The series follows a season with the Liberty City Warriors, a youth football program founded by an unlikely mentor: hip-hop pioneer Luther Campbell, better known as "Uncle Luke." Beyond football, the Liberty City Optimist Club is a youth organization that sponsors sports teams, dance, cheerleading, tutoring and academic support. Life, like football, is a contact sport, and for the kids and families of Liberty City, being a Warrior holds the key to both.

Although the premise of the docuseries might sound like what has become the clichéd genre of "sports as life and a gateway out of a troubled area," a trailer we saw – and the involvement of James, who in his off-court life is a passionate advocate for the underprivileged – makes it seem like Warriors of Liberty City could be a cut above the usual. – Jeff Pfeiffer

THE AMAZING HUMAN BODY PBS

Premieres: Sept. 19 at 8pm

What's It All About? To capture something as truly amazing as the inner workings of our bodies, it takes equally amazing technology and graphics, and this three-hour series, airing in one evening, uses such technology to impressively demonstrate some of the things that make us tick. From CGI depictions of how a brain reacts to a fearful situation, such as picking up a rattlesnake, to an inner look at the body in action during athletic activity, this impressive program helps us understand at least a little bit the processes that keep us alive, and which we may normally take for granted. The three hours are divided by topic: "Grow," which shows how humans grow from a single cell to beings of more than 37 trillion cells; "Survive," a look at the miraculous ways the body works to stay alive and healthy; and "Learn," which shows how experience teaches our brains and bodies to work together and develop new skills.

THE MAYO CLINIC: FAITH - HOPE - SCIENCE PBS

Premieres: Sept. 25 at 9pm

What's It All About? Filmmaker Ken Burns is famed for his multi-episode documentary series often running several hours in total, but he is also quite effective at presenting real-life stories in much shorter works on occasion, as he has done in stand-alone films like 2012's The Central Park Five (which he co-directed with his daughter Sarah, and David McMahon).

The Mayo Clinic falls into this latter category.

Clocking in at only two hours, the documentary still features all the best elements you would expect from a Burns production (along with executive producing the film, Burns also co-directed with Erik Ewers and Christopher Loren Ewers), particularly the historical footage and photos, and a cast of voice-over actors familiar from previous Burns projects, such as Tom Hanks and Sam Waterston.

If anything, the Burns template at this point has almost become too workmanlike and familiar that the style itself is no longer as groundbreaking as it once was, so these projects must increasingly rely on a particularly fascinating subject. But Burns has a strong knack for picking out historical subjects not covered extensively before, or undercovered elements of familiar topics.

The former is the case here, as the film explores the compelling history of Minnesota's famed Mayo Clinic, a topic about which we had known little and gained great insight from the film. In a unique approach, the film not only offers the history of the medical center via footage and photographs, but also interweaves the historical tale with current stories of patients who have come to Mayo looking for answers.

As the film's subtitle indicates, the documentary demonstrates the power of medical science and the role of humanity in that science, as well as the power of hope in healing. These are themes that have played out at the Mayo Clinic for well over a hundred years, and which are driven home powerfully in this film. — Jeff Pfeiffer

BORN THIS WAY PRESENTS: DEAF OUT LOUD A&E

Premieres: Sept. 12 at 8pm

What's It All About? Marlee Matlin is an executive producer of this documentary, which follows three predominantly deaf families as they raise their children in a hearing world. Though there are many differing opinions about how deaf children should be raised, these families work to forge their own paths forward and combat the daily social stigmas many deaf people face. There's no indication at this point if Deaf Out Loud is being felt out for series potential, but it seems like it could be an intriguing complementary series to A&E's well-received, Emmy-winning Born This Way.

STOLEN DAUGHTERS: KIDNAPPED BY BOKO HARAM HBO

Premieres: Oct. 22

What's It All About? In 2014, 276 Nigerian schoolgirls were kidnapped from a school in Chibok, northern Nigeria, and hidden in the vast Sambisa Forest by Boko Haram, a violent Islamic insurgent movement. Granted exclusive access to the 82 girls who were freed last year and taken to a secret government safe house in the capital of Abuja, Karen Edwards and Gemma Atwal reveal how the young women are adapting to life after their traumatic imprisonment and how the Nigerian government is handling their re-entry into society.

NATIVE AMERICA PBS

Premieres: Oct. 23 Airs: Tuesdays at 9pm

What's It All About? The series is a four-part exploration of the many indigenous populations of Native Americans — current and past — that have called the continent home for thousands of years. And the focus is not only on North America; the series delves into the intriguing connections between the cultures of all the Americas, including Central and South America, and shows that they weren't often as isolated from one another as people might think.

Using a unique combination of history, archaeology, interviews with modern Native Americans, and animated representations of the mythology and storytelling so important to most of these groups, Native America offers a fascinating chance for many to gain a better understanding of these cultures than they may have had in the past, and perhaps lead to a better future for all.
